Learn About Fire Safety

STOP LOOK & learn™

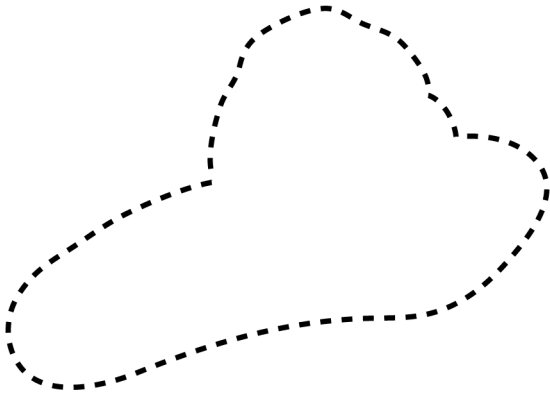

Smoke detectors should be installed in every level of your home. Your local fire department will help you decide where the best place is to install each smoke detector. Make sure to test and replace batteries in your smoke detectors on a regular basis.

Many fires can be prevented if you learn and follow safety and fire prevention rules.

It's also a good idea to have one or more fire extinguishers in your home. They need to be kept in easy to reach locations. A fire extinguisher needs to be tested annually to make sure it is working properly.

If your house does catch fire and you are in a room with a closed door, remember to feel the door to see if it is hot. Fire may be on the other side.

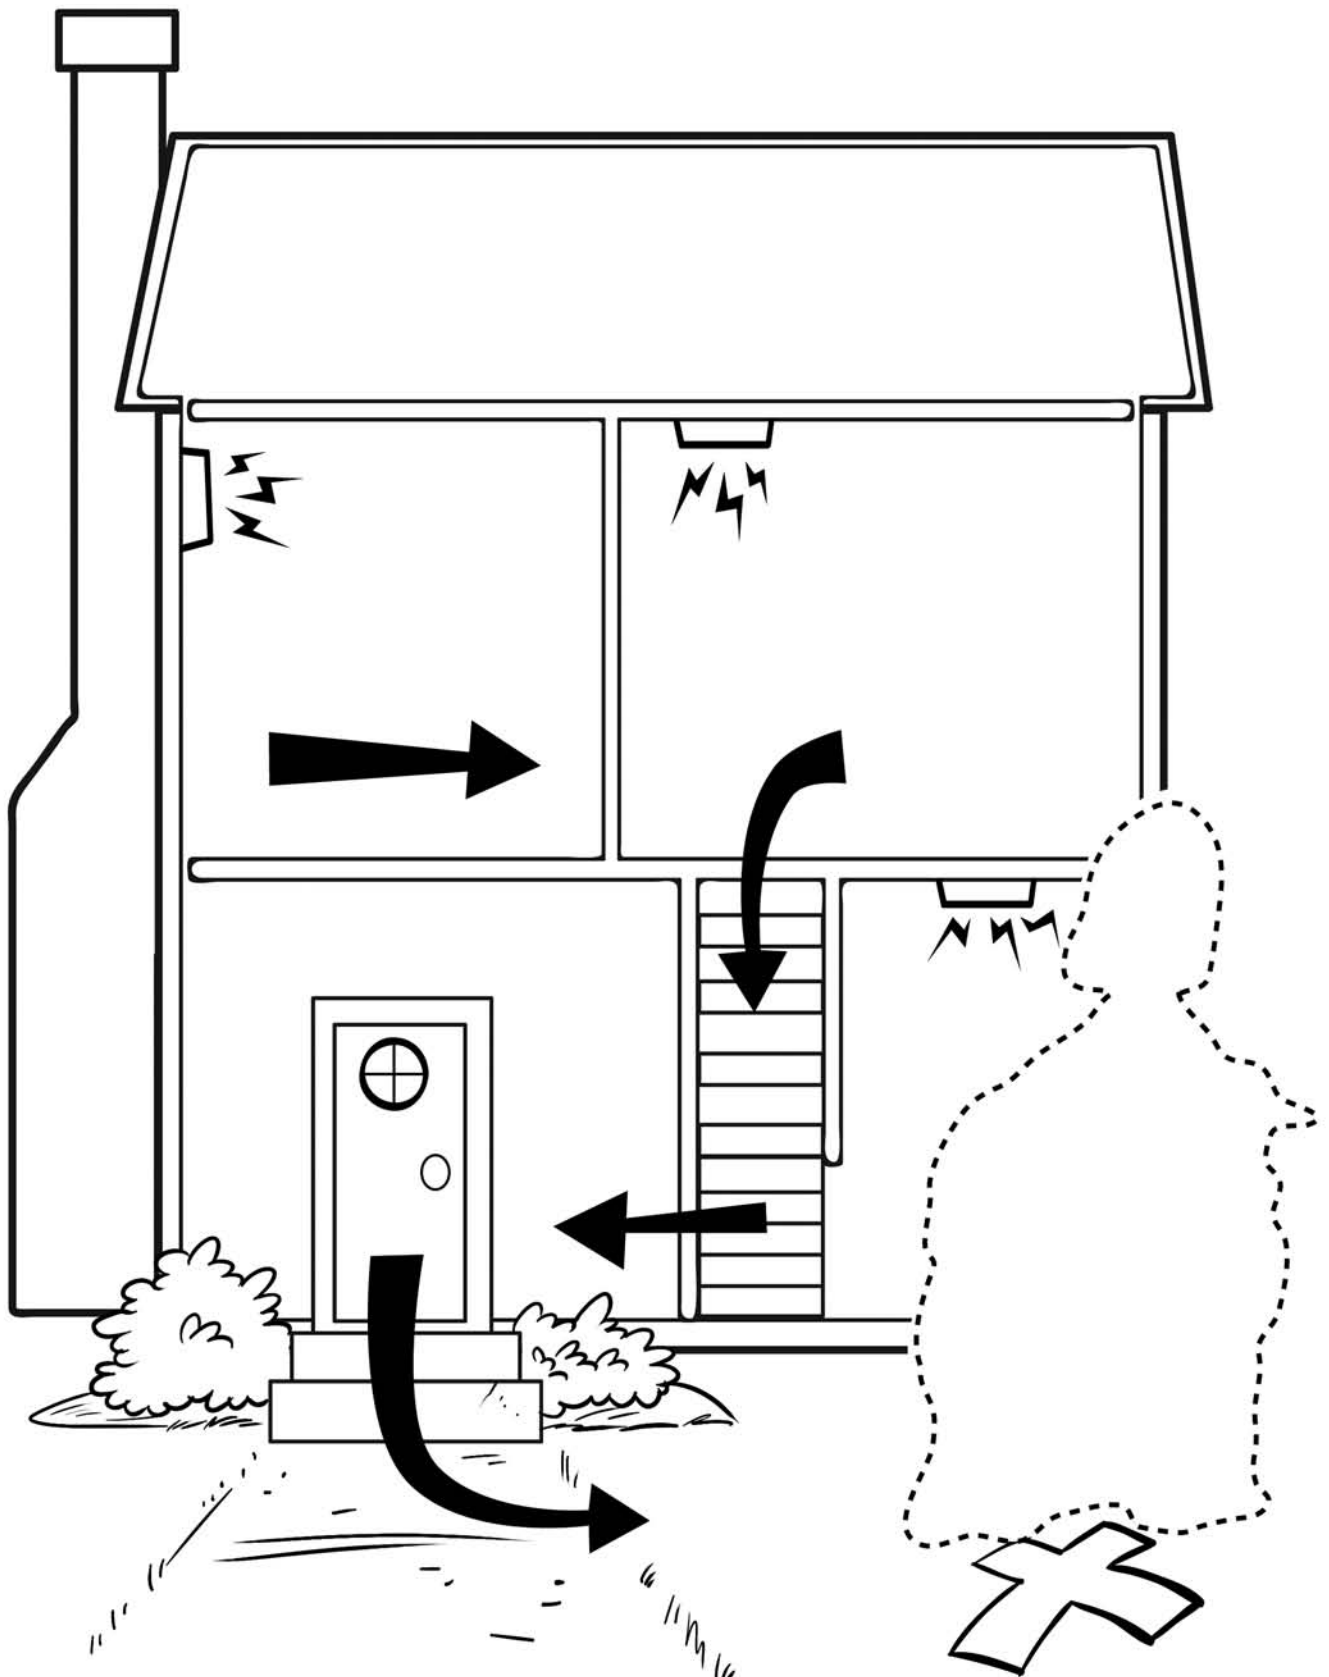

Remember, smoke kills, so keep low to the floor since heat and smoke rise.

This sign warns you something is flammable or can easily catch on fire.

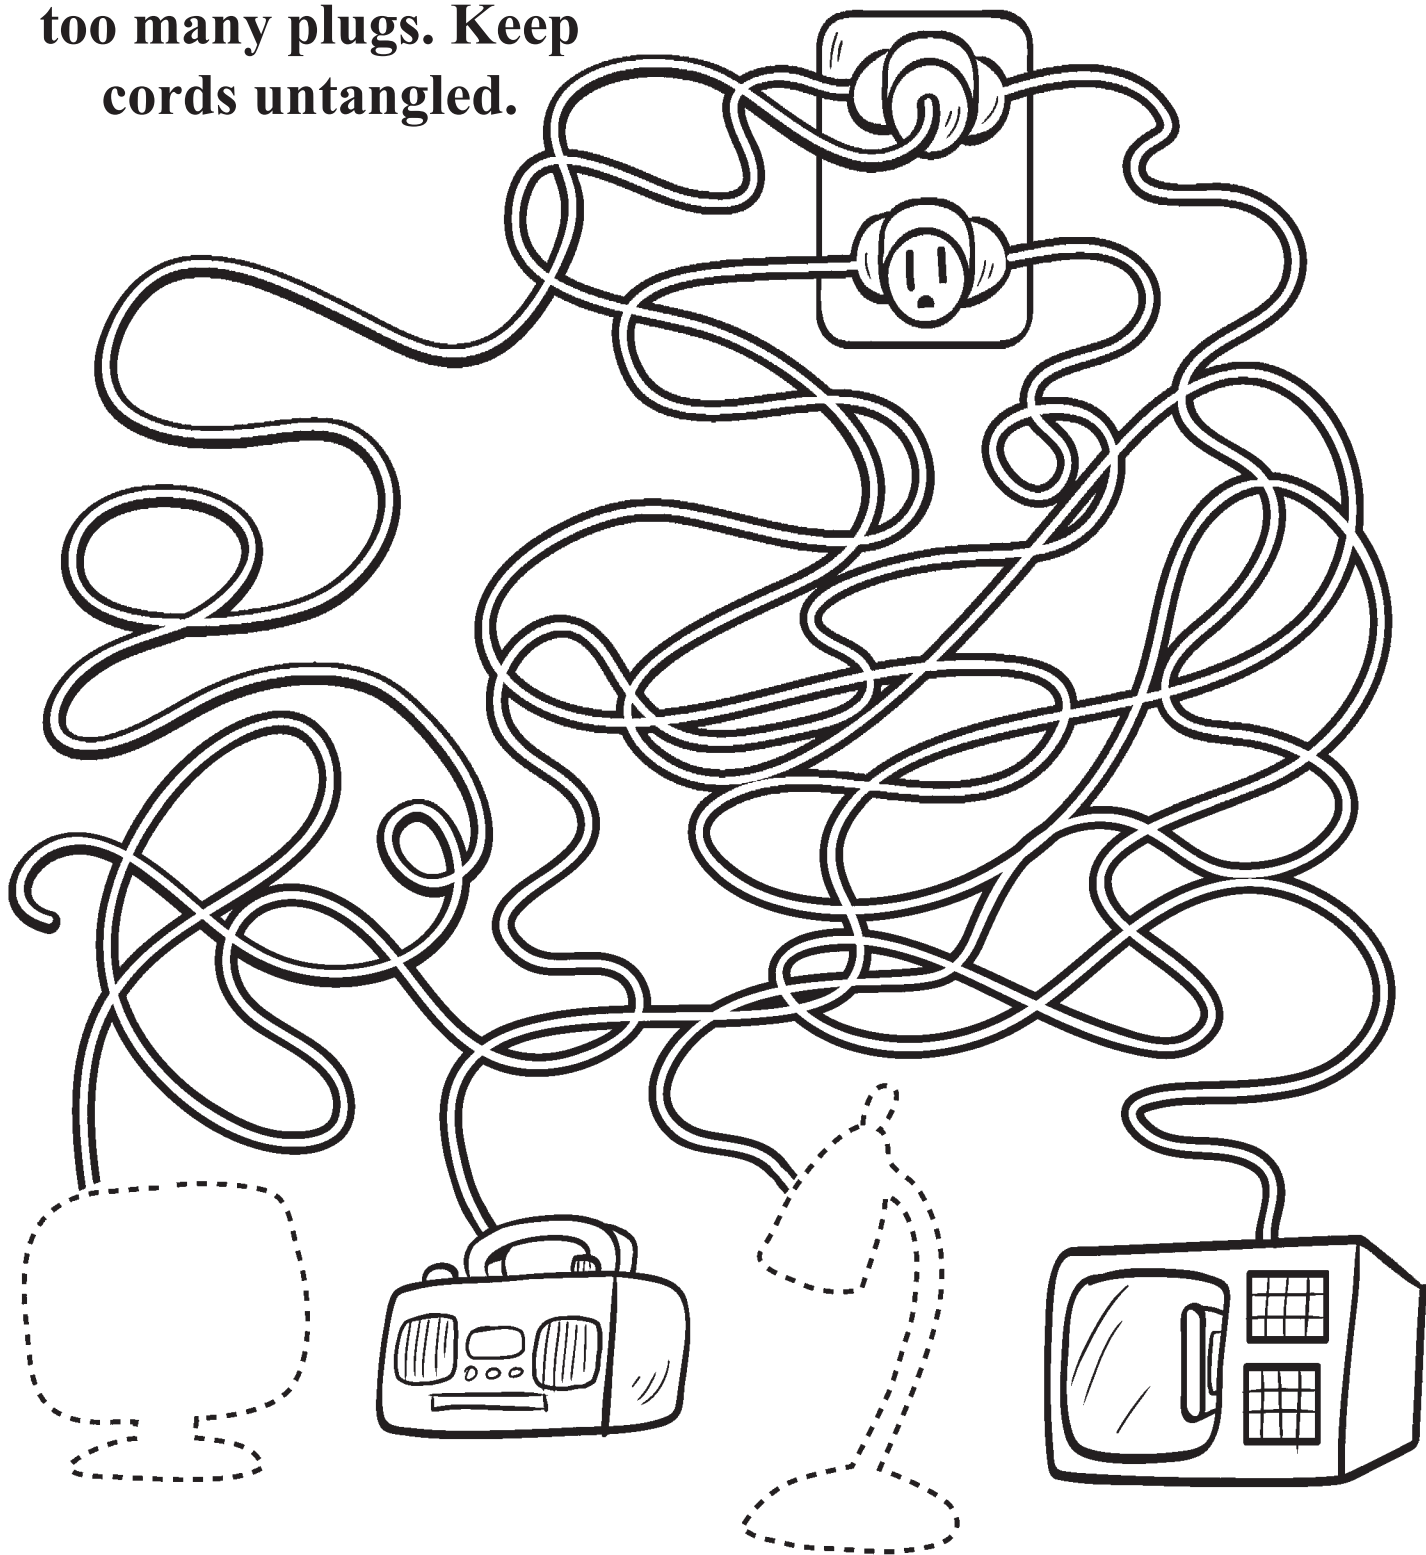

Store flammable liquids and matches in proper containers and get rid of unused newspapers, rags and other flammable materials. Keep everything away from electrical outlets.

Have a plan on how you would get out of your house in case of a fire. Have a spot where your family will meet in a safe place once outside.

Don't overload electrical outlets with too many plugs. Keep cords untangled.

Can you find the cord that belongs to each appliance?
